

RIGHT The graffiti in the castle marks every stage in the building's history. The detail here shows religious carvings made by medieval prisoners. Since 2001, visitors have been encouraged to make their mark on a special 'graffiti wall'

ABOVE A stone slab carved by a prisoner, probably in the 13th or 14th century. Inscribed in Latin, it reads:

Bartholomew for
the truth, wrongfully,
and without reason,
am I confined in
this prison
